Saying NO to Sexual Misconduct

Saying NO to Sexual Misconduct

IFRC

Preventing and responding to sexual misconduct, including sexual exploitation and abuse and sexual harassment, is everyone's business and responsibility. IFRC has zero tolerance for sexual misconduct, which means when allegations are received, they are taken seriously and assessed for the most appropriate action. IFRC relies on you to help us identify and address sexual misconduct.

This self-paced online course has been developed to better equip you to take measures to prevent and respond to sexual misconduct. This course focuses on identifying, responding and preventing sexual misconduct. You will hear about sexual misconduct through different stories and thought-provoking questions. Through the seven chapters of this course, you will learn to define, detect and contextualize sexual misconduct and how it is linked to power. You will also be introduced to the impact of sexual misconduct on survivors, learn how to provide a supportive response to those involved and how to report incidents. Finally, your role and responsibilities will be clarified as well as the commitments IFRC has made to prevent sexual misconduct.
