

WHO WILL LISTEN TO WHAT YOU SHARE?

Your Worker

Tina will listen to the ideas you share and will talk with you about what you think is going well and any changes that you think would make your experience of ACF better. If your worker can help with making these changes, they will. If changes can't be made straight away, or at all, your worker will explain why.

Managers who help your worker

Monica Robertson & Catherine Ensor & Sharon Duthie

Monica, Catherine, and Sharon will help your worker to make changes around the place. These people help the workers do their jobs. They will listen to your worker and other workers about the ideas that children and young people share with us. They will try to make changes based on what you tell us. They will let your worker know if changes can be made, or can't be made straight away, or at all, so that your worker can explain this to you.

CEO (the boss of the Australian Childhood Foundation - ACF)

Joe Tucci

Joe will hear about the collected ideas that children and young people share with us. Joe will talk with other managers about what children and young people think is going well at ACF and make decisions about how ACF could change to be better for children, young people and their families.

Idea Counter and Sharer

Chris Cussen

Chris will collect children and young people's feedback, display them at ACF, for workers and other children and young people to see. This will only happen if you say it's ok to share your ideas with us and are happy for us to display your work. We won't have your name on it, and it's ok to say no to this. Chris will also gather together children and young people's feedback and share it with the people who work at ACF.
